THE HERALD'S DRAMATIC CRITIC

Last week the Kentucky Irish American had occasion to call attention to articles in the Louisville Times that ridiculed St. Patrick and reflected on the Irish people and on the Catholic religion. The Irish and the Catholics were quick, individually and collectively, to resent the caricatures and the scurrilous articles. On Friday the Times published on its editorial page "Our Apologies to St. Patrick." The editor went on to state that in the hurry and stress of publishing an afternoon paper objectionable articles occasionally creep in. To many the apology was not at all acceptable, and on Monday night a special meeting of the County Board of the Ancient Order of Hibernians was held for the purpose of expressing the indignation of the members. Every member of the board had something to say in regard to the objectionable matter, and they expressed themselves very forcibly. The following committee was appointed to draft appropriate resolutions and to present a copy of them to Col. W. B. Haldeman, editor-in-chief of the Times, and to Col. Robert W. Brown, its managing editor: State President George J. Butler, County President John A. Murphy, John M. Mulloy, William T. Meahan, Judge Patrick T. Sullivan and William J. Connelly.

The gentlemen composing this committee met the Times' management on Wednesday at noon. After a full and free discussion of the matter Col. R. W. Brown gave the committee a guarantee that such objectionable articles were published through error and promised that under no circumstances would the Times offend again. The committee left thoroughly satisfied with the ample apology and the promise for better supervision of the matter. Col. R. W. Brown gave the committee a guarantee that such objectionable articles were published through error and promised that under no circumstances would the Times offend again. The committee left thoroughly satisfied with the ample apology and the promise for better supervision of the matter.

The apology published in the Times last week was as follows:

"In the makeup of the metropolitan afternoon newspaper, with its concentrated rush of news covering all of the day's happenings the world over, the wonder is, not that mistakes are made, but that their occurrence is not more frequent. That reflection, however, does not lessen the regret of the Times when a mistake does slip into its columns or cause it to delay the amende honorable. And such an amende is due to our good friends, the Irish, because, tucked into a newspaper article dealing with the life and labors of the good St. Patrick, there was discovered after Tuesday's editions had gone to press evidence that the author had in one instance permitted his supposed sense of humor to get the better of his sense of reverence. So skillfully was this concealed that, though the proof was read by one of St. Patrick's most faithful followers, it escaped his notice.

"It is the Times' fixed purpose never to deal lightly with questions of religious belief. That it has appeared to do so in this instance does solely to an error born of accident, not intent."

Now that the Times has been disposed of, there is another local journal that needs attention from the Irish, the Catholics and other decent people. One who signs himself C. D. and who has long been known for his Socialistic tendencies, his irreverence for all forms of religion, and his contempt for the Irish and hatred for the Catholic church, is writing some of the dramatic criticisms for the Louisville Herald. Friday morning of last week he wrote a miserable screed about the performance of Chauncey Olcott, the romantic Irish actor who played at Macaulay's Theatre during the last half of the week. Mr. Olcott resented the criticism from the stage Saturday evening, and later sent a note to the Times which was promptly published. Mr. Olcott said, among other things: "I do not object to being stoned, but I do object to being stoned just because I am Irish."

That is it in a nutshell. None of the Irish people object to honest criticism of their faults, failures or misdeeds, but they do most seriously object to being pointed at with contempt because they are Irish. The time has come when Irishmen are leaders at the Louisville bar; when they are leaders in the field of medicine and in the pulp and in the schools and colleges of this city and State; when they are leaders as merchants and manufacturers. They read, they think and they advertise in journals that slur their race and faith perhaps offending editors and publishers will do the thinking.

HOSPITAL MIDDLE

Louisville's poor old City Hospital seems never to be at an end of its troubles, probes and investigations. During the present week three things developed—that Dr. J. J. Menefee, the Superintendent, expects to leave the institution and will go to Europe; that the cook, Philip Hoffman, was investigated, and that Councilman Krebs, whose brother is the alleged steward at the institution, inspired the investigation.

M. Krebs, a brother of the Councilman, according to Dr. Menefee, is utterly incompetent for the position of steward. Councilman Krebs says that Philip Hoffman, the cook, is a drunkard. Hoffman says that M. Krebs told him that his brother had paid $500 for the office of Councilman and that he intended to make all he could out of it. Out of all this tangle there is no telling what developments may come, but meanwhile the poor patients are suffering.

SURPRISED

Were County Board Members at Division 4's Showing.

The County Board delegates who were present at the meeting of Division 4, A. O. H., Monday evening at Bertrand Hall, expressed their surprise and gratification at the unusually large attendance, considering that no notices had been sent out and no special business of importance was to be transacted. This had been a regular occurrence of late and President John Hennessy and his fellow workers seem determined to make the division the largest in the South or Southwest. James A. Sexton, Sylvester Doyle and M. J. Collins were elected as members and Edward McGarry and John Holmes were received and obligated. Newton G. Rogers, who transferred from Division 1, was received and delivered a short talk on the purposes of the Catholic Federation, of which he is the local President.

John Fitzgibbons and Thomas Dignan, of the Entertainment Committee, reported that they were arranging an entertainment for members of all divisions and the Ladies' Auxiliary shortly after Easter in Bertrand Hall. Capt. Joseph P. McGinn, of the Hibernian Knights, stated that they were preparing to carry out his instructions, assisted by Lieut. Thomas J. Langan, and invited the members to be present at any of their drills. William T. Meahan, of Division 2, presented a handsome clock to Division 4 on behalf of his division. John Holmes, James Keefe, Col. Mike Hogan and John F. Murphy were proposed for membership, the last named being a son of County President Murphy, and promises to be "a chip of the old block" in the ranks of Hibernianism.

FAITHFUL SOUL

Who Was Always Resigned to God's Will Called Home.

One of nature's noble women was called to her heavenly home early last Sunday morning when Mrs. Katherine Molisee passed away after suffering for a fortnight. In her last agony, as in all her trials through life, she was patiently resigned to the will of God. Not only is she mourned by two daughters, Mrs. John Gray and Mrs. William White, but by hundreds of friends all over the city, who admired her for her many virtues and humble Christian life.

Mrs. Molisee was born in Ireland sixty-six years ago, but had lived in Louisville half a century. While still a young woman she was left a widow with two small children. Despite hardships and adversities she never faltered but accepted good fortune and bad as the will of her Maker. She instilled the same spirit in her children, and died as she had lived, a faithful Christian and an affectionate mother.

Two weeks ago she was seated in her room at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Gray, Thirty-seventh and Chestnut streets, and did not notice that one of her limbs had become numb. When she attempted to stand she fell and the limb was fractured at the hip. This injury resulted in her death.

The funeral took place from St. Charles Borromeo's church Tuesday morning, and the Rev. Father Raffo paid a splendid tribute to the deceased, to her virtues and her wisdom and goodness. She was one of those good women whose example will do much toward forming the characters and lives of those who knew her. Many sorrowing friends accompanied the bereaved daughters to see their mother laid tenderly to rest in St. Louis cemetery.

WELL PLEASED.

Knights of Columbus Secure Home On Fourth Avenue.

Louisville Council, Knights of Columbus, on Thursday purchased the old Thomas residence, at 608 Fourth avenue, for $13,500. The deal had been in prospect for several weeks and the work of the committee that was seeking to buy the home was fully approved Wednesday night by the entire council. The deal was closed the next day.

The new home is a commodious three-story structure of brick, but it will be remodeled and additions will be made to fit it for a model club house and assembly hall. Since the Elks' Home was destroyed by fire several months ago the Knights of Columbus have been without any quarters, and the members are pleased that such a central location has been secured.

Work on remodeling and furnishing the new home will begin at once, as the Louisville Knights are very anxious to get into permanent quarters.

ENTHUSED.

Supreme Council Arrangements Committee Met and Organized.

Sub-Committees are Appointed to Advise and Devise Means.

Encouraging Addresses Made by Members at First Meeting.

JOINT OUTING IS IN PROSPECT

The Supreme Council Arrangements Committee of the Young Men's Institute met and organized at Mackin Council's club house last Sunday afternoon. The committee was called to order by Supreme Director James T. Shelley, who stated that the committee had been appointed to make suitable arrangements for the reception and entertainment of the delegates who would attend the Supreme Council in this city next September. Without further ado the committee organized by electing Mr. Shelley as permanent Chairman; Charles S. Raily as Secretary and John J. Sullivan, Sr., as Treasurer. Other members of the committee who were present were: Trinity Council—John J. Sullivan, Sr., Edward Wolff, E. J. Conney and Andy Keiffer.

Satelli—William A. Perry, Mackin—Charles S. Raily, R. W. Galway, Ben J. Sand, James T. Shelley, Louis J. Keiffer.

Unity Council, of New Albany—Charles F. Pfeffer, J. M. Ashabraner, John Martel and William E. Seorger.

The following sub-committee on press was named: Edward Wolff, John Martel, William A. Perry and Louis J. Keiffer.

Chairman Shelley also appointed the following members, one from each of the four councils represented, to devise ways and means: Andrew Keiffer, of Trinity; J. M. Ashabraner, of Unity; W. A. Perry, of Satelli, and Ben J. Sand, of Mackin. This sub-committee will probably arrange to give a joint outing of the four councils during the summer. The general committee realizes that quite a nice sum will be necessary to properly entertain the visitors next fall and joint action of all the councils around the Falls will be necessary to meet the expense.

Fred Itels, Grand Secretary of the Indiana Jurisdiction, delivered an address in which he complimented the committee on its splendid attendance and offered to lend the members every assistance in his power in the work they had in hand. He also impressed on his Kentucky brethren that the Indiana Jurisdiction was in sound condition financially, socially and numerically, and that its members would in every way aid in making the coming Supreme Council a success.

Robert T. Burke, President of Mackin Council, complimented the committee on its attendance and enthusiasm. In fact, he said, he had never seen so much enthusiasm at a committee meeting of any character. He pledged his own and his council's assistance to the good work. Along this line also was an address from Frank G. Adams, Chairman of the Board of Grand Directors of the Kentucky Jurisdiction.

Supreme Director Shelley delivered an address in which he paid honor conferred on him by electing him Chairman of the committee. He told of the splendid reception and entertainment afforded the Supreme Council at Indianapolis in 1906, but he added that with so much enthusiasm Louisville would do even better in 1908. He was followed by John J. Sullivan, Sr., Supreme Second Vice President, who told why the delegates should be properly received and hospitably entertained. Among others who spoke briefly, but along enthusiastic lines, were Louis J. Keiffer, Charles F. Pfeffer, J. M. Ashabraner, Ben J. Sand and Andy Keiffer. The committee adjourned to meet at Trinity Council's club house at 2:30 o'clock on the afternoon of the second Sunday in April.

RINGS TRUE.

Platform of the New Fifth Ward Democratic Club.

The Fifth Ward Bryan Club was organized last Monday night and the following officers were elected: John Barry, President; E. L. Grossman, First Vice President; Gus Gatzell, Second Vice President; Henry Forstling, Third Vice President; John J. Sullivan, Fourth Vice President; J. E. Thomas, Secretary; Ed Barry, Treasurer; Charles Cherry, Sergeant-at-Arms.

The club will meet twice a month at its headquarters, 134 East Market street, the first and last Thursdays in each month. Its present membership is 163.

The following preamble was drawn up: "It being the sense of this club that the election of William Jennings Bryan is essential to the welfare of our country and to the preservation of those sacred Democratic doctrines handed down by the immortal Jefferson, and to curb the further encroachment on the constitution; to relieve the people from the arbitrary exactions of the trusts; to destroy the pernicious precedent of dictating to the American people his successor, attempted by the present President; and, by sane and equitable administration of the laws to restore confidence to business and employment to the thousands who are now idle; to inter forever the 'big stick'; to advocate the readjustment of the tariff on a basis of revenue only, and the modification of the writ of injunction as applied to labor disputes, and it being our belief that William Jennings Bryan will in full measure accomplish the above policies, and in short, be a President of all the people, we therefore pledge ourselves, individually and collectively, to work and organize in our respective precincts to see that only delegates favorable to him shall represent us in the coming Democratic convention."

FINE GIFT

Made to Catholic Woman's Club For Its New Home.

Monday night at the Seelbach Hotel a most interesting meeting of the Catholic Club, composed of many of Louisville's most representative citizens, was presided over by President P. H. Callahan. In calling the meeting to order the Chairman stated that the principal object was to consider propositions for the assistance of the Catholic Woman's Club, which last week purchased the Waverly Hotel property on Walnut street for a permanent home. After a full and free discussion, participated in by Hon. Edward J. McDermott, James Hines, Dillon Mcpherson, Frank A. Geher, Alonzo Lavelly, William F. Blum, Jr., President Callahan and others, it was the consensus of opinion that the most practical way to aid the club at this time would be by making a cash donation. Thereupon a resolution was introduced, and unanimously adopted providing for the gift of $1,000 to the Catholic Woman's Club. This generous act will give the ladies great encouragement, and the example set will doubtless be followed by others of our Catholic societies.

After the discussion of minor matters the club adjourned to meet on April 20, when the annual election of officers will be held.

WEDDING BELLS

Will Peel Out Merrily For the Hubbsch-Dahlem Nuptials.

A wedding of more than usual interest in German Catholic circles will take place this evening at St. Anthony's church at 9 o'clock on the morning of Wednesday, April 23, and will be followed by a nuptial mass. The bride-elect is the youngest daughter of Mrs. Sebastian Hubbsch and Val Dahlem, Jr., the bridegroom, Mr. Val Dahlem, Sr., at Nineteenth and Main streets.

The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Father Bonaventura Ciek, O. F. M. The bridesmaids will be Misses Nettie Dahlem, Anna Hubbsch and Annie Hollenbach, while the groom's attendants will be Messrs. Louis Schranz, Emil Zeller, Philip Hollenbach, Jr., and Charles McDonald. After a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's mother, 2330 West Jefferson street, the newly married young folks will leave on a honeymoon trip of two weeks. Both of the young people are being showered with congratulations.

RECENT DEATHS.

The funeral of Mrs. Josephine Molter, the beloved wife of Edward P. Molter, 635 East Green street, took place Wednesday from St. Boniface church. Deceased was thirty-eight years old, and her death is mourned by all in the vicinity where she resided.

Michael Frederick McMahon, twenty-two years old, died at the home of his aunt, Mrs. Kate Kulaher, 1414 Twenty-first street, last Sunday and his funeral took place from St. Boniface church Tuesday morning. The deceased was an excellent young man, and his death is mourned by many friends.

Joseph and Anna Driscoll have the sympathy of a wide circle of friends in the loss of their bright and promising son Cornelius, whose death occurred Tuesday night at the family residence, 1007 Venzel street. The funeral took place Thursday morning from St. Boniface church, the solemn services being attended by many sorrowing friends and relatives.

Robert W. Spinner, thirty-eight years old and a highly respected member of St. Paul's church, died Saturday night after a short illness at his home, 1927 Shelby street. Until recently he had been a member of the police force and left a record as a faithful and fearless officer. His wife and one child survive him, and for them there is widespread sympathy. The funeral took place Monday, Rev. Thomas York officiating at the solemn obsequies.

Joseph Kehl, an aged and highly respected resident of the East End, was called to his eternal reward last Sunday, after an illness that extended over a year. His funeral took place Tuesday morning from the Church of the Blessed Sacrament and was largely attended. Deceased was a native of Germany, and surviving him are two sons, Herman and Edward Kehl, and three daughters, Mrs. Philip Hendricks, Mrs. Charles Baumgarten and Miss Ruth Kehl.

There seems every prospect that this year we shall see the soft Indian cashmere permanently restored to feminine favor.

WORTHY

Celebration of St. Patrick's Day Causes Many Laudable Comments.

Custom of Drawing Shamrock in Copious Portions Is Discouraged.

Gaelic League Wants General Closing Law Making It Compulsory.

IEWS OF AN ABLE IRISH EDITOR

Concerning the recent celebration of St. Patrick's day in Ireland the Dundalk Democrat says: There is no more healthy sign of the times in Ireland than the change that is taking place in the manner of celebrating the national festival. Not very many years ago the popular idea of celebrating St. Patrick's day tended too much in the direction of "drowning the shamrock," and we fear that it must be admitted that the result was such that it would have been better that the festival had been totally ignored. Of late, thanks to the new ideas that found a mouthpiece in the Gaelic League, we have come to take a more national and worthy view of our duties and obligations in this respect, and surely the good saint who brought the light of faith to our shores must look down with gratitude and with pleasure on those who are laboring to make the celebration of St. Patrick's day worthy of him whose memory we honor.

Foremost amongst the objects aimed at by the Irish Irelanders in connection with the celebration of St. Patrick's day is the total closing of the public houses on the festival. In this we are glad to say, to the credit of a class who are often roundly condemned (and not without some reason), the licensed traders in many of our Irish towns have cheerfully expressed their assent only that their trade rivals should do likewise. Now, notably in Dundalk, and largely owing to the enthusiasm and hard work of Henry Morris, the late Secretary of the Gaelic League, the closing of the public houses on St. Patrick's day has become an accomplished fact, through the influence of public spirit and the good will of the majority of the publicans themselves. Doubtless wherever an appeal is made to the publicans, backed by a sound robust expression of local feeling, the same good results will be obtained. But to ensure the success of this movement, and to prevent greedily or cross-grained liquor dealers spoiling a movement which largely depends upon the unanimity of the trade, the closing of the public houses should be made imperative. For this purpose the Irish party ought to introduce legislation making the closing of public houses on St. Patrick's day compulsory. Such a law could not injure any decent publican, and would compel his rival of less public spirit to toe the line.

In Dundalk and many other towns St. Patrick's day has now come to be observed as a national holiday. There are places where this has not been established, but that is solely owing to the lack of a virile national spirit in the people. We think it will be found that in such places the "bank holidays" established by the British Legislature, are most religiously observed. Now we have never been able to understand the bigoted people who protest that Ireland can never be industrially prosperous while her Catholic people close so much valuable time on church holy days. There are but ten such days in a year, and the bigoted who object to Catholic holy days are the very people who want a week off at Christmas, and another at Easter, and won't work on Whit Monday, or the first Monday in August—or perhaps for a day or two after. We think there ought to be no more fighting spirit in Irishmen to insist on at least the festival of the national saint being properly observed as a day of rest, rejoicing and thanksgiving; and we hope the time is at hand when we shall see it so from end to end of the land the good St. Patrick loved so well and labored for so long. This is a duty that Irishmen owe to themselves, to their country and to God, who inspired that good saint to bring the light of Christianity to our shores, and who has kept our faith strong and pure through all the centuries of darkness and persecution.

BELLS ARE READY.

Peal For St. Anthony's Church Blessed Sunday.

With impressive ceremonies and in the presence of a large congregation the magnificent set of bells that will ring from the handsome new tower of St. Anthony's church were blessed and christened last Sunday afternoon by the Rev. James P. Cronin, Vicar General of the diocese, assisted by Rev. Leo Greulich and others of the local clergy. Rev. Louis M. Miller, Provincial of the Order of Minor Conventuals, came from Syracuse especially to preach the sermon, and received a welcome that showed he still holds a warm place in the hearts of the people to whom he ministered for years.

The bells are three, two and one ton in weight each and cost $5,000. They arrived last week from Germany and are now being put in position in the tower, where they will first peal forth on the Saturday before Easter. The largest bell was christened Margaret, the second Edna and the smallest Monica. The Young Ladies' Sociality contributed the largest bell, and it was named in honor of Mrs. Margaret Fry, who died some time ago. The second bell was contributed by St. Edwards' Commandery of the Knights of St. John, and the smallest bell was donated by the Woman's Society of which St. Monica is the patroness.

The inspection and drill will be open to the general public, and as the order has a large following here the park will doubtless be thronged.

FIERCE FLAMES

Wrought Heavy Damage to Butchertown Brewery Plant.

Flames of an unknown origin damaged the Butchertown Brewery's plant on Story avenue to the extent of $60,000 last Tuesday night. Fortunately the main building was not injured and there has been no cessation of business, although the company will be put to extra trouble and expense until new buildings can be erected. The loss was fully covered by insurance, and work on removing the debris preparatory to erecting new and more substantial structures are already under way.

There are few more popular businesses in Louisville than John F. Oertel, President of the company, and William Ruff, the Vice President. When it became known that the plant was afire expressions of sympathy were heard on every hand. All the other breweries in the city proffered their assistance. Some of the products were stored in the damaged building, but the loss was not as bad as it might have been had it not been for the good work of the fire department.

The Butchertown Brewery Company some time ago prepared to erect new buildings in place of those destroyed Tuesday night. Plans and specifications had been submitted to an architect and blue prints made, but the project was postponed when the recent anti-liquor crusade developed. Now the work will proceed according to the original plans and as rapidly as possible. The men employed at the plant will not lose any time in resuming their work, as the business will go on as heretofore.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS.

Secretary Martin Issues Call For State Council Here.

Pursuant to the ruling of State President Joseph Deiterman and the wishes of the Central Committee of this city, State Secretary Albert F. Martin has issued the official call for the State convention, which will be held in Louisville on Tuesday, September 8. In accordance with this action it will be necessary for every branch in the State to elect delegates and alternates at the first regular meeting after receipt of the State Secretary's notice, and they will immediately forward the names of those chosen.

It is further ordered that those branches that recently paid the tax on capitation assessment that was levied shall be given credit for the same when the next levy is made by the Assessment Board in June. All branches are also requested to report to the State Secretary their total membership up to and including May 31, 1908, so that the proper rating may be made by the Board of Assessment.

The Central Committee and the various branches will soon arrange the programme for the entertainment of the State convention, May 4. (Continued on page 2.)

INSPECTION.

Knights of St. John to Appear in Fatigue Uniforms.

The great event of the year for the Knights of St. John, and looked for with unusual interest by the six commanderies that comprise the First District of Kentucky, is the annual inspection and drill, which will take place at Phoenix Hill Park on the evening of Monday, May 4. (Continued on page 2.)

A feature that will both please and surprise the gathering will be the initial appearance of the crack St. Michael's Commandery of St. Peter's parish, now known as "The Colonel's Own," in their bright and handsome new fatigue uniforms. This commandery is the strongest in the district, numbering six hundred and thirty members, and is commanded by Capt. Green, who may enter his men in the big prize drill at the coming national convention.

The inspection and drill will be open to the general public, and as the order has a large following here the park will doubtless be thronged.

DEATH WAS SUDDEN.

Patrick Ryan, sixty-nine years of age, died alone in his room at 1238 Rounsvon street on Tuesday of last week. He was born in Ireland and had lived in Louisville since he was twelve years old, and for thirty years past he had been night watchman in the employ of Bryne & Speed. The deceased was a friend of Joseph Taylor, a veteran Hibernian, and intended to leave him his little fortune of $1,000. Unfortunately death overtook Mr. Ryan before he had an opportunity to have his will drawn. His funeral took place from St. Patrick's church Monday morning. As yet his estate has not been disposed of.

WHITWASH.

Great Big Brushes and Plenty of Lime Are Now in Demand.

Much Smoke Causes Suspicion of Fire in Brblery Rumors.

Reform City Officials and Their Backers Are Losing Ground.

IS THE POLICE CHIEF DISGUSTED

A week ago the Kentucky Irish American called attention to the proposed investigation of the rumors that undue influences had been brought to bear on members of both boards of the Louisville General Council in connection with the passage of the Fetter electric lighting franchise ordinance. It also suggested that the investigation be open and above board if any good were to be accomplished. The investigation was held and to many it was farcical in the extreme. Instead of the two boards sitting as a committee of the whole, or instead of each board holding its own investigation as committee of the whole, in the two boards separate committees were named, and these committees summoned only such witnesses as they pleased. Even then there was dirty linen aired, as the daily press reports showed, and while the committees are prepared to whitewash the case, even whom rumors are connected there are many who are convinced that there must be some fire where so much smoke is in evidence. In the lower board Councilman Eugene Daily was the chief investigator—not the respected Eugene Daily, the veteran detective, but the Eugene Daily who has one brother a Magistrate, another brother in the City Engineer's department and still another in the health department.

Think of a dozen or more reform city fathers going to a saloon, not to get a drink, not to talk politics, but merely to inspect a new automatic piano. The evidence showed that the members also went to the Old Inn and ate a one-course dinner at the expense of the man who aspires to be President of the lower board of the General Council. Matters were discussed there, say the witnesses, not how to pass the Fetter franchise ordinance, but how to outwit President Ford and how to defeat his rulings. It also developed that Mr. Fetter partook of that meal; that he had purchased drinks and cigars for Aldermen and Councilmen; that he did it because he wanted them to consider him a good fellow.

Why Mr. Fetter's sudden change of front? Did he ever want his employees, his printers and his printing pressmen to consider him a good fellow? Does he try to be a good fellow with the union pickets outside his doors these days? The investigating committees from each board asked only such questions as they desired, and when the answers did not suit their purpose the witnesses went silent. One of the witnesses who gave testimony was protected by the advice of an attorney. Some of them were subjected to indignities from which they had no recourse.

Incidentally the investigation revealed that the reformers are split in two camps, and that W. Marshall Bullitt is persona non grata to several members of both boards. It also revealed that Col. Richard W. Knott and the Evening Post were holding out in defense of these alleged reformers, who if what persistent rumors say be true will bring greater disgrace on the city than did the famous Big Seven of a few years ago. People are wondering how any respectable editor or journal can defend these men until a full and fair investigation has shown that all were unworthy. The Evening Post has been a strong advocate and partisan of W. Marshall Bullitt. It is still sounding his praise and praising his methods. Yet it developed during the recent investigation that Bullitt was meeting with Councilmen and Aldermen in and over saloons, and was paying for the drinks. He is a reformer that has opposed saloons.

Last Tuesday many residents of Louisville were surprised to see many negroes, clothed in raffron-buff garments and with white headgear, clanking the streets. These uniforms cost something. Who pays for them? Is there a graft in it? No harm can come from asking the question. It was noticeable that these uniformed men were all negroes; that they were in their hundreds, and that several hundred white men to make way for negroes.

Rumor follows rumor, that Jacob H. Haeger, disgusted with the continual interference of the members of the Board of Public Safety, seriously contemplates resigning as Chief of Police. Last Sunday, it is said, the board took plain clothes men out of his hands, took them to the board's office and instructed them as to the manner of catching Sunday idlers. Men were transferred from one district to another because the board, not the Chief, said so.

Just one more sample of reform. Officer Robert Spinner, who died last week, while on his death bed, was tried by the Board of Public Safety for alleged contemptuous resigning in 1905 and was dismissed from the police force. This same board appointed to a place in the fire department about the same time a man convicted of assaulting a young woman and sentenced to serve eight years in the penitentiary.

WILL IT WORK?

Michigan people are always trying something new and novel, and they have a faculty of making it work to their advantage. This time it is to be in the nature of politics. The citizens of Grand Rapids propose to do away with local party lines, and by a majority of three to one have decided to elect city officials in the following manner:

There is to be a nominating primary with a single official ballot. Under the name of each municipal office will appear the names of all candidates for that office for whom properly signed petitions have been filed. Signers must be citizens and qualified to vote, and no one is permitted to sign more than one petition for the same office. For Mayor the number required is 100; for Clerk, Comptroller, Treasurer, Alderman, etc., the number required is fifty. The names of candidates for nomination are placed upon the official ballot without anything to designate to which political party they belong. Blank circles are placed opposite each name and voters are instructed to indicate with a cross the candidate for each office for whom they wish to vote. All voters at the primary receive this official ballot. There can be no cross voting as in party primaries.

The two candidates for each office who receive the highest vote at the primary are the ones, and the only ones, whose names are placed upon the ballot at the final election which is to be held later. This final election is conducted upon the same plan as the primary, no party names or emblems being permitted to designate the politics of the candidates. They are voted for merely as citizens, and it is expected that sometimes both of the candidates for a city office at the final election may belong to the same political party. It is claimed that the new method will benefit the city by eliminating national politics from local affairs.

MODERN CICERO NEEDED.

Calamity howlers are predicting three years more of financial depression, of enforced idleness for the mechanic, of high prices of food and clothing, of labor troubles and hard times in general. If those false prophets would advise the voters to take things in their own hands and decide them by the ballot instead of the bullet we would see good times and peace and prosperity would reign in the land. America is the greatest country on earth. It has practically limitless resources and its people enjoy more liberty than any country on the face of the earth. Their remedy is the ballot box. As the Kentucky Irish American has said several times before, there can be no war between capital and labor, but there are dishonest men among the capitalists just as there are grafters in some of the labor bodies. As long as the world lasts there will be that lust for power, that greed for gold that began almost with the creation of the world. Adam and Eve wanted more knowledge than they were created with, and Shakespeare makes Cardinal Wolsey tell us:

"Cromwell, I charge thee, beware ambition!

By that sin the angels fell. How, then, can man, the image of his Maker, Hope to win by't?"

Down through the ages of nearly 6,000 years troop a panoramic story of wrecks of men and nations, and all on account of putting personal ambitions before love of God and love of fellow-man. The agony and death of a Man-God did not even put a stop to dishonesty and efforts to overreach others. Ambition is part of our nature, but, unless we are guided properly we will be wrecked on the shoals and rocks of life.

The present hard times in America have not been brought about by or famine. Last year, as for several former years, our fertile fields yielded golden harvests from Maine to California and from the Gulf of Mexico to the Canadian borders. The Western plains were filled with sleek fat cattle. Gold from Alaska and Colorado, copper from Michigan and Montana, coal from Pennsylvania, Kentucky and West Virginia, iron from many States, cotton from the South that was fashioned into fabrics in the East—all this served to show the people that God had given us a wonderful country.

Suddenly banks began to close. Stock jobbers in New York City were speculating and money became tight. Railroads discharged many employees, mills shut down, foundries and mines ceased to be operated. Yet all this happened with granaries full and lots of work to be done. Why? Because rich men wanted to become richer and were willing to undertake anarchistic methods to accomplish their end. Ah! dear friends, it is a sad commentary on human frailty to find that the negro or poor white man who surreptitiously takes a chicken or a loaf of bread is a thief, but the bank President and Sunday-school Superintendent who steals thousands is a mere speculator; that the poor devil who marches the street and cries for food and work is an anarchist, while the capitalist who squeezes the last dollar from his opponent and from the working man, who causes idleness, misery, suicide and murder, is held up as a man of remarkable discernment. The poor fool that shoots a Governor is hanged or sentenced to the penitentiary for life, while the men who connived at it are sent to Congress or want to go, and the railroad magnates that furnish the transportation to incite riot and bloodshed, who are virtually as guilty as the man who fired the shot, are not even mentioned or censured in the matter. Indeed, it needs a modern Cicero to denounce the modern Catillines that exist in our times.

Never fear, we will find them, too. Heroes have been found in every age. Our own Irish poet, Oliver Goldsmith, put it into beautiful verse when he said:

"Ill fares the land, to hastening ills a prey,
Where wealth accumulates and men decay.
Princes may flourish or may fade;
A breath can make them, as a breath hath made,
But a bold peasantry, a country's pride,
When once destroyed can never be supplied."

But American citizens will not let any such calamity occur. There are leaders wise enough and conservative enough in both parties to lead them out of the clutches of these wretched Mr. Hydes, who were once Dr. Jekylls, but whose continued tampering with the greed for gold has led to their moral deformity. There are Bryans and there are Roosevelts and men probably as great or greater in the Democratic and Republican parties. If not, a new party will be formed, a party whose platform will be broad enough for every honest man in the United States, and, thank God, there are enough honest men in America to elect the candidates that accept it.

Labor unions are organized and maintained for the purpose of securing fair wages and reasonable hours of labor, and as long as members of these unions refuse to be dragged into partisan politics by self-seeking individuals so long will they be of benefit to the rank and file. The union man must not surrender his right to the ballot, but must use his suffrage wisely and for the benefit of all and not of a class or an individual.

Gov. Augustus E. Willson has shown excellent judgment in vetoing bills and approving others. The Legislature left him with ninety-two bills and thus far he has not failed to approve the good and veto the objectionable ones. It is also to his credit to have taken the new State Board of Control out of politics. This is a move for greater efficiency in the three insane asylums and feeble-minded institute.

During the present week President Roosevelt once more emphasized his interest in the welfare of the working classes in this country. He sent an additional message to Congress on Wednesday and demanded the enactment of certain legislation, and every bill he recommended has to deal with the relations between employer and employee.

BEGIN EARLY.

The ladies who comprise the Sewing Circle of St. Edward's Hospital in New Albany are now making extensive arrangements for the bazaar that will be given the latter part of October for the benefit of that institution.

REAL CATHOLIC CHARITIES.

St. Stephen's church, New York City, has received a gift of $3,000 to establish ten school scholarships in memory of one of its teachers, the late Miss Caffery, and a $1,800 altar railing in memory of Mr. Michael Grady.

SOCIETY.

Mrs. Frank Welch, of Montgomery, Ala., has been spending a week with visiting relatives.

George P. Denner, Walter Ratcliffe and George Dehler, Jr., were registered this week at West Baden.

Mr. and Mrs. B. Moran, of Clifton, have been spending a week with friends and relatives in Owensboro.

Owen Sullivan and P. Garrity were among the number from this city who spent the week at West Baden Springs.

Will Klaphke's friends are rejoiced to see him out again after an illness of two weeks at St. Anthony's Hospital.

Mr. Ernest Kauffmann will leave today for Cincinnati, where she will spend some time visiting relatives.

John Donahue, who was here to visit his daughter, Mrs. Flanagan, in Clifton, has returned to his home in Covington.

Miss Katherine Spalding has returned from Lebanon, after a delightful visit to Mrs. John M. Ryan on Long avenue.

Miss May Hourigan has gone to visit her aunt, Mrs. William Francis, at Asheville, N. C., and will remain several months.

John Shea and wife, of the Highlands, who have been spending the winter in Kansas City, are expected to return home next week.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Jennings, of Hill House, Miss., have been here on a visit since Tuesday. They are the guests of Mrs. Jennings' father, Mr. Michael Finegan, of 1139 Sixth street.

Capt. Michael Dolan, who sustained a broken leg and other serious injuries while fighting the fire at the Second Presbyterian church a month ago, has been pronounced out of danger.

Mrs. Fred Hengsch and little son, who were here to visit Mr. and Mrs. John A. O'Connor, Twenty-sixth street, left Monday for their home in Chicago. With Mr. Hengsch they will next month leave for an extended trip through Europe.

Miss Anna O'Connor, of South Louisville, left Monday afternoon for Elizabethtown to spend a week visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. T. O'Connor. From there she will go to Cincinnati, where she will be the guest of friends for a month.

Mr. and Mrs. Christian Koop, of 1221 White avenue, entertained at dinner Wednesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Yeager, who have just returned from their bridal tour. Twenty guests were royally entertained. The home and the tables were handsomely decorated for the event.

The engagement was announced this week of Miss Lily Hoertz and Charles J. Cruise. The wedding will take place soon after Easter. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Hoertz, and is a young lady of many accomplishments and graces. Mr. Cruise is the general editor of the Kentucky Elk, and is receiving many congratulations on winning such a charming bride.

Master L. V. Pottinger, of Owensboro, who is visiting relatives here, was this week given a jolly party in honor of his eight birthday. After enjoying games for some time the little folks were led to the dining room, which was tastefully decorated with ferns and carnations, to partake of refreshments. A large cake bearing eight candles occupied the center of the table, and the same idea was carried out in the ices. The favors were small baskets filled with bonbons. Those who enjoyed the festive occasion were Misses Alberta and Nellie Goose, Anna Presser, Frances Clary, Loretta and Gertrude Gossett, and Masters Thomas, Troy, Paul, Vincent and George Shrader, of New Albany, and L. V. Pottinger.

SISTER VICTORIA DEAD.

Sister Victoria, one of the instructors in music at the Presentation Academy, died at that institution Tuesday afternoon. She had been ill only a short time and was a victim of pneumonia. Previous to entering the Sisters of Charity of Nazareth the deceased was Miss Bettie Bowman, and was a member of a prominent Bullitt county family. She was fifty years of age and had spent more than thirty years as a nun. Before coming to Louisville she was engaged in teaching at Nazareth and at the academy in Owensboro. She is survived by the following sisters and brothers: Mrs. Margaret Blackett, of this city; Mrs. Mary Bryant, of Texas; George and Joseph Bowman, of Louisville, and John Bowman, of Crystal, Mo. On Wednesday the remains were sent to Nazareth and were interred there Thursday.

JUBILEE PREPARATIONS.

Rome is making great preparations for the formal celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the ordination of Pope Pius X. The vast hall of beatification over the porch of the basilica of St. Peter, and communicating directly with the Vatican apartments, has been made ready for the event. A huge throne has been erected and seats have been arranged for the Cardinals. Two tribunes have been erected for the members of the diplomatic corps accredited to the Holy See and for the Roman nobility. The celebration will not take place until September, but the work of decorating has been in progress since the first of the present year.

FIFTY YEARS.

On April 17 next the Jesuit Fathers of the New York-Maryland province will celebrate the diamond jubilee of the foundation of the province. The same date will also be the two hundred and seventy-fifth anniversary of the first Jesuit mission in Maryland.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

Late News That Will Interest
Members Here and Elsewhere.

Knights at North Cambridge, Mass., will give their annual minstrel show the first four nights after Easter.

The Academy of Music has been secured for the reception that will be held by the Philadelphia council Easter Monday night.

The annual banquet of the Massachusetts State Council will be held Easter Monday night. Archbishop O'Connell, Hon. Thomas H. Carter, Senator from Montana, and Hon. Victor Dowling, Judge of the New York Supreme Court, will be the speakers.

Nearly all the members of Hennepin Council of Minneapolis were present last week at the meeting and reception tendered Rev. Dr. Kelly, the eminent Chicago divine, and Rev. Father Cullen, each of whom declared the Knights of Columbus were powerful factors in the religious and social world of America today.

MISS SULLIVAN IMPROVES.

It will be pleasing news to her many friends to learn that Miss Elinor Sullivan, who has been seriously ill of typhoid fever at her home, 215 East Breckinridge street, for several weeks, is doing as well as could be expected. All that care and attention can do is being done for the patient sufferer, and it is fondly hoped that she will soon be convalescent.

BOSTON'S JUBILEE.

The real reason for the postponement until fall of the celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of Boston's creation as a diocese is found in the fact that the Philadelphia celebration for Archbishop Ryan and the New York celebration for Archbishop Farley both come during the period when Boston's anniversary occurs, April 18, and it would be asking too much to have the members of the hierarchy, the ranking members of which are well along in years, to do so much traveling from one end of the country to the other.

GUESTS OF TRINITY.

What promises to be the largest local gathering of the Young Men's Institute for some time to come will be witnessed Monday night at Trinity Club club house, when the 500 members of Mackin will make their annual visitation to their sister council. The men of Mackin Council will meet at the club house at 7:30 o'clock and proceed to Trinity's hall in special cars. This visit will be memorable from the fact that it will be the last made to the old home of Trinity, which will this summer move to its handsome new club house now being erected on Baxter avenue. Though the programme for the evening has not yet been announced it is learned that it will include some agreeable surprises.

SELECT FINE DRAMA.

The dramatic club of St. Francis Aid Society, a benevolent organization of St. Peter's parish, has selected "The Shadows of the Rockies" for its dramatic performance the latter part of May. The cast, consisting of eleven persons, has been selected.

HINTS ON STYLE.

New rain and storm coats are full, generous, comfortable affairs with big armholes.

In both gowns and handsome waists the long shoulder effect is the fad of the moment.

One of the latest brettele manifestations is their extension into the ash effects at front and back.

There is plenty of evidence that stripes will within a month or so have to yield to checks and plaids.

As a result of the fashion for printed patterns, stenciling has come to be adopted for various garments.

Among the new border materials Shantung are offering a wide choice of artistic design and modish color.

A distinctive feature of the latest gown fashion is the general suppression of the separate bodice and skirt.

There is a slight tendency toward crude colors. Afternoon frocks are seen of brightest royal blue, apricot, violet and pink.

Pastel blues and Copenhagen blues are extremely popular for evening coats. Light bronze greens also are well liked.

Among the worsteds are striped pieces with wide checked borders, which come in white and brown, white and blue, white and old rose, etc.

Dainty striped silk parasols in black and white, blue and white, etc., will be exceedingly smart for street or carriage use this spring and summer.

Jaunty little Frenchy coats of cretonne and a parasol to match will be seen with white or colored lineu and pique skirts on next season's summer girl.

Hat crowns seem to be increasing in size. Some of the most gigantic crowns have narrow brims, while in other hats both crowns and brims are enormous.

The two-piece tailored suit is being replaced by the gown with the separate coat wrap that harmonizes with it in color, if not in material. Japanese designs, toned down in outline and color for the Western taste, are among conspicuous new features in the early spring dress goods.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing
the Past Week—General
News Notes.

Next week we will tell what was done by Division 3 last Thursday night.

Division 2 met last night, and from the interest manifested there will soon be a big class ready for initiation.

Those who visited the Jeffersonville division last Tuesday never tire of telling of the hearty reception accorded them.

Following the election of officers by Division 1 at Spokane, Wash., twenty-five candidates were initiated and received into the order.

Division 4 of Boston will hold a reunion of its past and present members on April 10, which will be attended by the State officers.

Fort Wayne Hibernians made an excellent showing Tuesday morning as they marched to St. Patrick's church to attend the high mass.

Division 4 meets Monday night.
There will be matters of more than ordinary interest for discussion and all members are urged to attend.

The Ladies' Auxiliary meeting Wednesday night was unusually interesting. They will have some important announcements to make very soon.

At Manchester, N. H., the order celebrated by receiving holy communion on Sunday and hearing an address from the Right Reverend Bishop, and also by attending the orphan's concert on Tuesday evening.

Vermont Hibernians observed St.
Patrick's day with a great parade at Burlington. The Knights of Columbus, Catholic Order of Foresters, Catholic Young Men's Union and similar organizations participated.

The Hibernians of Houston, Texas, aided by the Knights of Columbus and other Catholic societies, gave two largely attended entertainments Tuesday, turning over the proceeds for the benefit of St. Patrick's school.

County President Murphy's expression of appreciation of the kindness of Vicar General Cronin and the men of St. Patrick's parish at the banquet Tuesday night caused the best of feeling and was warmly applauded.

Division 1 will meet next Friday night, when final arrangements for moving to the Falls City Hall will be made. All outstanding committees are expected to have their reports ready and President Mulloy expects all the members to be present.

Memphis Hibernians were not behind in the observance of St. Patrick's day. The banquet at the Sazerac was one of the most brilliant yet held in that city. Fathers Kernan and Heffernan and many prominent citizens were at the banquet board and responded to toasts.

ANNUNCIATION

Calls For Triple Celebration at St. Columba's Church.

The members of St. Columba's church, thirty-third and Market streets, feel justly proud of the five artistic statues from one of the leading ateliers of Paris, France, which have been presented to the church by three generous members of the congregation and by its two sodalities. The statues donated by individuals are those of the Sacred Heart, St. Joseph, St. Anthony, while the statue of the Blessed Virgin is a gift from the Young Ladies' Sodality, and that of St.
Aloysius from the children's societies.

Owing to the generosity of friends of the church and of the Rev. Father John D. Kalaher, its pastor, the little house of worship also has been enhanced in beauty by the gift of a handsome new altar, elegant new candelsticks and candelabra and a fine vestment case. In recognition of this munificence a fitting celebration has been planned for next Wednesday evening, March 25, when the statues will be solemnly blessed at 7:30 o'clock.

On that occasion the sermon will be delivered by Rev. George M. Connor, assistant pastor of St. Paul's church, Owensboro, whose eloquence has attracted widespread attention.
Father Connor's many friends in this city will be glad to have the opportu-

RECENT DEATHS.

Frank Otte, a well known young man of the East End, died at the family residence, 1312 Hull street, Monday and the funeral took place from St. Aloysius church Wednesday morning. The deceased was twenty-three years old, and was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Otte.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret McLough, who died at her home, 1838 Tyler avenue, on Sunday, took place from St. Patrick's church at 9 o'clock Tuesday morning. The deceased was seventy years old, and was survived by her husband, D. J. McLough. She was quite popular in the community in which she lived and her death was generally regretted.

Mrs. Sarah Wickstead died at her home, 615 First street, Saturday morning of last week and was buried from the Cathedral of the Assumption, Monday morning. Mrs. Wickstead, as Miss Sarah Connors, was quite popular in Irish Catholic society circles a few years ago. She is survived by her husband, Harry Wickstead, and one daughter, four years of age.

Michael Pile, an old and respected member of St. John's congregation, will be buried from that church this morning. He is survived by his wife, two daughters and three sons, and his brother, Officer James Pyle, of the Louisville police force. Deceased was a model Catholic, husband, father and citizen, and for many years a member of Branch 25 of the Catholic Knights of America.

Mrs. Catherine McGarry died at the residence of her son, Peter McGarry, 1217 Seventh street, Wednesday morning. The deceased was born in Ireland eighty years ago, but had spent sixty years of her life in Louisville.
She was the widow of the late Peter McGarry, for many years one of Louisville's leading contractors. The funeral took place from St. Louis Bertrand's church at 9 o'clock Friday morning.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lawson Whallen, one of Louisville's most estimable young matrons, died suddenly at her home, 2912 Greenwood avenue, Wednesday afternoon and her funeral took place from Holy Cross church last Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Whallen was thirty-one years old and was active in charitable work in Holy Cross parish. She is survived by her husband, Orrie E. Whallen, and two sisters, Mrs. Gottlieb Bills and Miss Maggie Lawson.

Another of Louisville's pioneer Irish-American residents was called to eternal rest when Mrs. Elizabeth Whallen passed away at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. J. Tierney, 1119 West Broadway, Friday of last week. The deceased was born in Ireland eighty-two years ago, and previous to her marriage was Miss Elizabeth Kirvan. She had lived in Louisville more than sixty years, and was well and favorably known all over the city, but more particularly in St. John's, St. Louis Bertrand's, St. Peter's and Sacred Heart parishes. Her funeral was largely attended Monday morning at the Sacred Heart church.

are conducive to his election.

CELEBRATED ANNIVERSARY.

The Very Rev. Father Lawrence celebrated the fifty-fifth anniversary of his ordination last Sunday. The celebration was of a strictly religious character.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

night in conjunction with the Hiberturned sincere thanks for the assistance they rendered during his church bazar.

second annual retreat tomorrow evening, which will continue until the following Sunday, when the members will receive holy communion

MANY PROJECTS

That Redound To Trinity Council Have Been Evolved.

The attendance at Trinity Council continues to grow, and each successive meeting shows an increased interest on the part of the members.
President James B. Kelly and his fellow officers have reason to congratulate the council on the good showing made last Monday night, when six new members were elected and one application was received. It was decided to hold an initiation after Easter. The council will approach holy communion in a body on April 5, Passion Sunday.

President Kelly occupied the chair Monday night, and the attendance was splendid. Great enthusiasm prevailed when it was announced that the bricklayers had gone to work on the superstructure of the club house.
The indications are that the new building will be ready for occupancy July 4.

MacIn Council was invited to be Trinity's guest on the night of March 30, an event that will bring both councils into closer touch.
President Kelly, noting that every officer was present, said it was the proper time to begin a campaign for 500 new members. The idea received general approval and steps were immediately set afoot to secure the required number.

It was also decided to hold Trinity's annual outing at Fern Grove on some day in July, the exact date to be decided later.

FRIENDLY SONS

Rejoice When Guests Who Disagree Pleasantly
Shake Hands.

In New York City the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick celebrated the one hundred and thirty-second anniversary of the foundation of their order last Tuesday night. George Washington was one of the early members of that organization. Like the American republic, the society is increasing in strength as it increases in years.

Among those who sat about the banquet board Tuesday night were William Taft, United States Secretary of War; Gov. Hughes, of New York; the Most Rev. John Farley, Catholic Bishop of the archdiocese of New York; Bishop Potter, head of the Episcopal church in New York; Stephen Fairbairn, President of the society; Justice Victor J. Dowling, Augustus Thomas, Judge Morgan J.
O'Brien, Gen. Frederick Dent Grant and the Presidents of at least a dozen other patriotic societies. The banquet was held at Delmonico's.
Secretary Taft and Gov. Hughes met and clasped hands in the banquet room. Though opposing candidates for the Republican Presidential nomination, it was St. Patrick's day—so time for a fight, both laughed, and the spectators applauded.

RETURNS AFTER FUNERAL.

J. R. McDonald, a member of Division 4, A. O. U., and well known in this city, has returned to Stone-ga, Va., where he came last week to attend the funeral of his father, John McDonald, which took place last Friday. The deceased was born in Queen's county, Ireland, sixty-four years ago, and was a veteran of the civil war. His son is now in charge of the shipping department of the Stonega Coke and Coal Company.

THREE YEARS' STUDY.

Dr. Wallace T. Galvin, who was recently graduated from the University of Louisville, will leave next week to spend three years in Europe in further study before entering upon the practice of his profession.
Dr. Galvin will divide his time abroad in the two leading medical colleges of London and Berlin. He is the son of Dr. John W. Galvin, the well known School Trustee.

YOUNG LIFE CLOSED.

The parents and friends of Miss Mattie A. Arnold mourn her death, which took place at the family residence, Twenty-seventh and Chestnut streets, last Tuesday evening. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Arnold, and her funeral took place from St. Charles Borromeo church Thursday morning.

REPEAL

Of Law Prohibiting Tobacco Cultivation Universally Demanded.Dillon to the Fore For the New Irish Educational Bill.Lord Clanricarde Grows Scared
at Birrell's Threat of Expropriation.

WHAT WILL PARLIAMENT DO?

Although the Government has been experimenting in Ireland in the cultivation of tobacco for several years past, there is still a ban on its cultivation by Irish farmers. The climate of Ireland is salubrious and conducive to the growth of an excellent grade of tobacco. In former days it was grown in large quantities, but in connection with her other tyrannies England put a stop to the growth of the shamrock in such a thing was possible. But now comes Hon. John Redmond, and as if by magic achieves something little short of a miracle. He has united every member of Parliament in Ireland, not only his own colleagues but the Orange wing of it, in a common demand that the law prohibiting the cultivation of tobacco in Ireland be repealed. Whether the House of Commons and the House of Lords will accede to the request is another matter.But there are other matters more important even than the repeal of the tobacco law. Hon. John Dillon, a veteran in the Irish Parliamentary party, is very much in earnest over the educational bill. To the correspondent of an American daily paper he said a few days ago: "In any other country in the world except in Ireland such school accommodation as we have had to ensure would bring down upon the Government that tolerated it the condemnation of civilized humanity. Such places as those in which Irish children were expected to obtain the rudiments of education have been worse from the point of view of sanitation than the cattle ranches of America."Under such conditions it is a wonder why our children lived to obtain any education at all. I am not at all sure whether much of the pestilence and contagion which from time to time have sent many of our people to an early grave have not proceeded from these so-called national schools."Lord Clanricarde, the most liberal of all Ireland's absentee landlords, is still the laughing stock of London society. It is no laughing matter for Lord Clanricarde however. For some time he has considered himself the most abused man in Ireland; now he fears that he is to be the most abused man in England.
He is badly scared by the threat of Mr. Birrell, Secretary for Ireland, to put through a bill for his expropriation.
He has rushed into print in his own defense in England, and this veteran evictor does not believe in eviction when applied to himself. He says his expropriation is "an outrage," "an atrocity," "an Eastern barbarism."The man who so writes has turned thousands of men, women and children out of their homes and from the fruits of their labor, to starve and die on the roadside. He, on the other hand, is worth millions, and if his lands were taken from him he would still have more money than any other Irish peer.When his tenants fought against eviction they were given long terms in jail. Lord Clanricarde can fight behind the legal barricades of the law. There is no danger that this personal harm coming to him, but like all misers, he fears to lose even a moiety from the thousands that he has received as a result of his evil methods. It seems now that the House of Commons will agree with Secretary Birrell in his expropriation, and that the House of Lords will scarcely dare to further jeopardize its own shaky foundations by pulling to his defense.

SOCIALISTS' GRIP.

Vote in English House of Commons Is Shock To Conservatives.Those who have not realized that England is the most socialistic nation in the world received a rude shock last Friday when they read the proceedings in the House of Commons on that day. They learned then that the most socialistic measure ever introduced in any national legislature found 116 supporters among the lawmakers, who by no means represent the full strength of the movement in the country. Scores of others remained away because they dared not oppose the bill which was advocated by a large proportion of their constituents.This "unemployed workmen's act" provided that the State must supply work, at the standard rate of wages, to all workmen who registered themselves as unemployed, or in lieu of work it must maintain the applicants and all dependent on them. Aside from the principal involved in this proposal, the legislation in its practical effects on that country would be something appalling, for the proportion of so-called "unemployed" sometimes ranges as high as 30 per cent. of the adults. This, of course, includes a large class, best described as "unemployable," who probably are more numerous in Great Britain than elsewhere. Members of trades unions have returned as "unem-

THE POPE'S JOKE.

An alleged cablegram is responsible for this one: Pope Pius X. has a sick friend in Venice, and during the week he granted an audience to a Jewish gentleman who also is a friend of the invalid.
In closing the interview Pius said to his visitor:
"If you see our friend tell him I send him my apostolic blessing."
"But, Your Holiness," observed the other, "I am a Jew."
"Oh, that does not matter," responded the Pontiff, "the goods are all right, though the packing may be bad."

SAD NEWS.

One of the Cate Twins Died
Soon After Reaching Canal Zone.Though Far From Home, New

Uncle Sam's Cure of Employees.

LOUISVILLE FRIENDS WILL MOURN

It will be sad news, indeed, for the many friends of Mr. and Mrs.
Charles I. Cate, formerly of this city, to learn that they lost one of their twin babies soon after reaching the Canal Zone. The grief-stricken parents have written a touching letter to Louisville friends, telling in part the story of the death and burial of the little one. Though thousands of miles away and amid strangers, they found that human nature is the same the world over and that there are kind hearts in every land. It will be remembered that Mrs. Cate, her little daughter and twin sons, left Louisville a month ago for Panama, where the husband and father, Charles I. Cate, holds a lucrative position in the Government service. According to the letter which announces the sad intelligence of the little one's death, the family arrived at Colon on time, but that one of the twin boys had contracted chicken-pox and a heavy cold on the steamer.
The letter announcing the illness and death left Gorgona, Canal Zone, March 9, and arrived at the Louisville Post-office at 10 o'clock on the night of March 16, just one week.
The letter tells of the many kindnesses both before and after the death of the baby, and at the same time shows that the United States Government is looking after the comforts and welfare of its employees in that region.The letter says in part: "The little family was met at Cristobal by Mr.
Cate, and with our hands full with our twin boys and little girl we could not help noticing the many little acts of kindness offered us. At Colon we took the train to Gorgona, and on arriving there went to the home of friends, Mr. and Mrs. Grant, for dinner. Later we called at the United States Government dispensary to see the doctor, who gave our sick baby every possible attention. Then we retired to our dear little bungalow, which has a great porch all around it, four rooms, a bath tub and shower, toilet and separate washstands, sink in the kitchen and water pure and plentiful.
"Every morning and evening a man comes by with fresh distilled water for table use and drinking purposes.
We are furnished in abundance, and coal and wood are put at our kitchen door as often as we need it.
We have a bed room, sitting room, kitchen and dining room, all neatly furnished, and so far as provisions are concerned they are as cheap as at home. In my opinion Uncle Sam could not do any more for us all.""After the dear little child passed away I did not expect my surprise at seeing the ladies call with their floral offerings and to show other tokens of sympathy. Later they took our dear little one and laid him in a casket trimmed by friends—there were no white caskets here. Four gallant gentlemen carried the tiny coffin out to the quaint little consecrated graveyard, while our new found friends to the number of 100 followed afoot. All along the route heads were bowed; women stopped and made the sign of the cross, wagons turned in another direction, so as not to interfere with the funeral procession. After the grave was filled a number of kind ladies remained to place the floral decorations on the little grave.
"Not one hour has passed since the funeral that some one has not called to offer sympathy and to ask if they could be of some service."

AMUSEMENTS.

of Irish ballads, will close his half week's engagement at Macauley's Theater tonight. In O'Neill of Derry, he has a vehicle for displaying his versatile talents, and has thus far played to well filled houses.Manager E. W. Dustin promises another excellent bill for the moving picture show at Hopkins Theater next week. The films displayed last week were of admirable character and the Irish features were appreciated by the many who witnessed them. This week the bill is to be even better but of a more varied nature."The Rajah of Bhong," a melodious mixture of the up-to-date variety, with scenery and costumes entirely new, will be seen here for the first time at the Masque Theater next week. The story is the story of the adventures of a party of New Yorkers, and includes a circus owner in search of freaks, a German hap-sawario in search of a prima donna, and a Hebrew explorer who drops down from his ship.
